Direct Hay Weighted Average Report for week ending 11/12/2021

Volume
This Week	Last Reported ()	Last Year

Please Note: The above volumes (tonnage, acres, and bales) listed on this USDA LPGMN report are for confirmed trades only, it does not include estimated volume (tonnage) for bids or offers to the trade.

Another week of riding the weather roller coaster after the frost late last week temperatures warmed back up to near short sleeve weather before the next front rolled in with highs reaching only the mid to upper 40's for the end of this week. Fall harvest and planting is running pretty much even with the five year average now. Corn left in the field is down to the single digits and a bit more than a quarter of the beans are still left. Many of the remaining beans were likely planted late due to mud in the spring and still standing because of the same wet fields. Several farmers were spotted cutting in anhydrous this week despite setting at a record high national average price of $1,113 (Missouri's average was $1088) according to DTN. A little bit of hay moving locally and some window shopping going on but overall hay business in the state is fairly slow which is to be expected as the hay crop was good this year and most farmers are setting on decent supplies currently. The supply of hay is moderate and demand is light to moderate and prices mostly steady. The Missouri Department of Agriculture has a hay directory visit <http://mda.mo.gov/abd/haydirectory/> for listings of hay <http://agebb.missouri.edu/haylst/>
